

WHERE ARE YOU NOW

by Mark Taylor

Copyright © © 2004 by Mark Taylor
All Rights Reserved

SONG LYRICS

I was there, when the warmth of your world
Began to turn, a bitter cold.
I was there, when the sweet sugar showers
Turned sour on you, and you had nowhere to go.

So where, oh where
Are you now that I, where are you now that I
Need you.

I'm asking where, oh where
Are you now that I, where are you now that I
Need you.

Well I was there, when the precious stars of your world
Came crashing down into the sea.
And I was there, when no one else cared
Don't you remember, Baby
It was just you and me.

But where, oh Sugar, where
Are you now that I, where are you now that I
Need you.
Yes I need you.

I thought we shared a special light.
And when we loved, our love was right.
Our love was right.

So Honey where, please tell me where
Are you now that I, need you.
Yes, I need you.

Well I was there, with you baby
When you found out, you'd lost all your bets.
And I was there, when no one else cared
And you told me, you'd never forget.

So Honey where, oh Lord where
Are you now that I, where are you now that I
Need you.

I'm asking where, Honey where
Are you now that I, need you.

I thought we shared a special song.

'Cause the words we sang, were never wrong.
No, they were never wrong.

So Honey where, oh please tell me where
Are you now that I, need you.
I need you.